

Optimizing employment outcomes among rural cancer survivors: Beginning a community-engaged research program

We are looking for ways to help people undergoing cancer treatment maintain their ability to work. We'd like to talk with people who are undergoing or have finished cancer treatment who are willing to share some of the challenges they faced while working, returning to work or finding a new job.

Who can participate?

Cancer patients in New Hampshire or Vermont who can share their experiences of working during or after treatment, including returning to work after time off or finding a new job after treatment.

Time or other commitments required of participants:

A one-time, 30 to 60 minute interview via telephone or internet (based on preference). After a few months, participants will be invited to participate in a 75 minute discussion group with 4 to 10 other participants. We will discuss what we found through our findings and possible programs that could help cancer survivors.

Is compensation provided?

Yes. Participants will receive $50.00 for completion of the individual interview, and $50.00 for completion of the discussion group.
